Bathroom Design

There's one thing that will ensure the success of your bathroom.

Good planning and design.

That's why we offer a full planning service, totally free of charge - and totally free of obligation. This can start with a site survey to measure your room and discuss your options. Or you can simply bring your dimensions into our Guildford showroom and we can discuss your needs there.

The next stage is to draw up your plans. This may be possible whilst you wait. However if your project is not straightforward, we may require a little longer to ensure we work out the best design for you. You can then use this as the basis for your bathroom - and it can be amended to your taste and budget.

Using the latest 3D design software, we produce plans made to scale and dimension, to ensure that windows and doors are in the right place. This will give you a photo realistic view of your finished bathroom.

Our design service is available for you, no matter how big or small your project - and with no obligation.

“Every time I walk into my bathroom, I feel like I am walking into a magazine. It is more beautiful than I could have imagined without your help - thank you”

Armour Plus

Armour Plus turns your acrylic bath into a rigid, super-strong acrylic bath. The modern equivalent to the old cast iron bath, but with a more tactile surface and a warmer touch.

Each of the four layers is designed to provide extra strength exactly where it is needed.

Layer 1

The outer surface. High gloss acrylic. Solid colour won't fade or rub off.

Layer 2

Glass reinforced polyester provides strength and high impact resistance.

Layer 3

Special mix of polyester resin and glass fibre increases torsional rigidity.

Layer 4

Blue mix of polyester resins seals the shell and completes the lamination.

Planning your shower

Once you have decided to fit a shower, there are other points you will need to consider. Here are just some of them:

How is your shower going to be used?

When deciding where to place your shower, the size and shape that you need is the first consideration. If possible, try standing in the space to find out if you are allowing enough space for your needs.

Who will use the shower? Multiple users or just one person? Are there any young children – where safety is important?

Are there any space constraints; what else needs to be in the room? How will the area be accessed? Where is the room entrance and windows?

Design considerations

As with bathrooms, showers come in a number of styles. So what are the overall design aims?

Are you looking for fresh simple looks, modern or a more traditional? Then choose the shower to suit.

Is the shower to be the single most important feature of the room? Does it need eye-catching design or is it a simple and purely functional shower?

Practical considerations

Some of the more practical considerations also need to be considered. Such as what is the construction of the floor upon which the shower tray will sit - wooden floorboards or solid floor?

Where is the drainage point and can the waste water be easily fed into an existing drainage system?

What type of hot water (or central heating) system you have? Your shower choice is dependent on the pressure of the water and the heating system that you have – a gravity fed boiler, combination boiler or unvented hot water system.

The shape and size of the room can dictate the answers to these questions, but other times you will have a choice.

The great news is that our design team can help and guide you through the process, to ensure that your finished shower, and bathroom, are exactly as you wanted them to be.

Wetroom kit

Low profile wetroom shower trays allow you to achieve the sleek contemporary wetroom effect with minimum disruption and reasonable cost.

The low profile tray is located directly on top of the floor joist with only the floor boards in the area of the tray removed. Due to the unique construction of the tray you will achieve the necessary falls to drain with a waterproof surface that is ready for final tiling. The tray also incorporates the location frame for the drain assembly and necessary sealing plate.

These trays do need additional reinforcement which is achieved by constructing a sub-floor, flush with the top of the joists, from timber battens with plywood infills. The joints between the tray and the walls and remainder of the existing timber floor need to be waterproofed to ensure a watertight structure.

The finished installation will be level with the surrounding floor area, ready for final tiling and the addition of your chosen shower screen.

The Installation Kit includes everything you need to complete the project including drain and trap assembly, adhesives and waterproofing materials.

Wetroom's are often a more affordable option than you might first imagine. Prices are dependent on the size of your space and requirements. Please speak to us and we can give you a price for your project.

10mm Shower glass

The type of shower enclosure you choose is based on your needs. If space is limited or showering just not something you prioritise, it can be tucked away in a corner cubicle or enclosure. If you love to indulge in showering, make it the centrepiece of your bathroom. There is no grander way to do this than with a freestanding shower. A sealed freestanding shower can be placed anywhere in the home, even your bedroom, so you can step straight into the shower from your own bed.

Where to start:

Have your measurements to hand when shower shopping, and get your shower fitted as closely to your bathroom plan as possible to maximise your space. In order to save space in the shower itself, consider a concealed shower which will look sleek and contemporary with the pipes hidden away, as well as helping to keep the shower area to a minimum. Controls can be placed away from the body of the shower itself. This keeps your bathroom design even more flexible, and allows you to adjust your shower without getting wet! The good news is that our staff are here to help and advise, so simply work out your priorities and then let us do the rest.

Digital Shower Components

Discover the difference modern technology can make. Our digital showers offer total safety and easy installation and maintenance, with push button controls both inside and outside the shower.

Turn on the water by gently pressing the control dial and watch the controls flash white as the shower heats up. When they stop flashing and begin to glow, the water's just how you like it - so step in and enjoy.

Both temperature and flow can be adjusted precisely to give you a perfect shower every time, while on our dual outlet digital showers you can switch easily between outlets with a simple touch.

Enhance your showering experience even further with the optional remote control. Used to switch the shower on and divert between showerheads, the remote can be installed anywhere within 10 metres of the shower for your ultimate convenience.

Choosing your digital shower couldn't be easier. Each outlet valve is supplied with a state-of-the-art digital mixer processor.

If you have a mains high pressure, combination boiler or pump assisted system, choose a high pressure valve. If you have a gravity fed system you'll need the low pressure option which includes an integrated pump - with brushless motors to keep noise to a minimum.

You'll need a single valve if you're just installing one shower head, or dual if you'll add a rail kit or bath filler as well.

Choose the modern or vintage style, to best suit your bathroom, then add the type of arm you want - ceiling or wall mounted - and a shower head.

Finally, add a remote control if you'd like to be able to turn the shower on from outside the enclosure.

Shower Heads

When choosing the showerhead for your bathroom, it is important that you think about the ultimate use it will receive. Sometimes you want your shower head to be functional. Other times it needs to transform your bathroom into a retreat. A spa. A place where you can relax and wash away the stresses of modern life. We have everything from round and square drench heads to multi function heads with a range of different pressure and pulse options.

Airflow

Airflow showerheads are the environmentally friendly, water saving option for your bathroom. They work to give you a real power shower while actually using less water. Put simply, air is forced into the water stream. When the water and air mix, this mixture spins around at high speed causing turbulence which increases the pressure inside the shower head. This forces the water out of the head with all the power of a conventional shower, but uses considerably less water.

On cold mornings there is nothing more welcoming than underfloor heating. It is also an ultra efficient way to heat the room. How? Well the heat rises slowly around the whole room (radiators tend to heat a smaller, more isolated area. Depending on the size of space, it could even remove the need for radiators altogether.
